

Stupid RV Trick 03

Send your local electrician's children to college!

(Bob and Betty Richardson – Lafayette, LA)

I have done this more than once. In the excitement of loading and leaving for rallies, I have on several occasions, started the coach and proceeded to drive off with the electric cord still plugged in. The electrical company charges a good penny to come out and repair the box.

LESSON: Haste makes waste. Hmmm, where is that checklist Bob????

Editor Note: Bob, your experience has been duplicated by the majority of RV owners. I see a golden opportunity here. Design a “magnetic” electrical plug adaptor which simply falls off when more than a few pounds of extensional pressure is applied. I will be your first customer. Let's see, 1 million RV owners.... 25% will purchase adaptor.... 250,000 x $30 each = $7.5 million in sales. WOW! Here is your chance!
